

11 MANDEVILLE PLACE, LONDON W1U 3AJ
TEL: 020 7034 4000

Protection Or Free Trade

A Course of Ten Weekly Sessions
Commencing 7pm Wednesday 30th April 2008

The current 'Fair Trade' movement attempts to protect the interests of those who labour to produce the goods we enjoy from overseas including the clothes we wear and the food we eat .

Henry George, in his book 'Protection or Free Trade', considered these issues and identified fundamental principles relevant to them. In this course we shall address the 'trade' question in light of those principles.

We shall first study Henry George's book and then explore the application in modern-day cases, of the principles he identified.

Presented by David Triggs
(Chairman: The Henry George Foundation)

The Course is Open to All

£75 Full fee*

£50 Concession*

£20 Students

*Existing philosophy students pay half price

Course fee includes copy of 'Protection or Free Trade'