SUMMER EVENINGS at MANDEVILLE PLACE

Programme 2011

THE MANDEVILLE PLACE summer season of evening lectures offers good food for body, mind and spirit. They are given by senior students in the School, speaking or performing from their direct experience in making philosophy practical within their fields.

Thursday 4th August

THE WORLD, THE FLESH AND THE DEVIL

Nicholas Debenham

Nicholas Debenham, retired headmaster, will conduct an affectionate reminiscence of the majestic language and thought of Cranmer's Prayer Book, which sustained the Church of England for four centuries until modern revisionism consigned it to a dusty shelf in the vestry.

Thursday 11th August

INSPIRING MUSIC AND WORDS FOR A SUMMER'S EVENING

David Ward, William Wray and Friends

A scintillating evening of music, poetry & prose devised and presented by pianist David Ward and actor William Wray with fellow musicians and performers to entertain, delight, amuse and refresh.

Thursday 18th August

WHAT IS A PHILOSOPHY SCHOOL?

Brian Hodgkinson

Historian and author Brian Hodgkinson will examine 3 Schools of Philosophy since the Middle Ages that taught practical systems of Philosophy for people living worldly lives and ask: 'Were they like the School of Economic Science?'

Thursday 25th August

THE ART AND NATURE OF REAL COMMUNICATION

Laura Hyde

At a time when we are surrounded by a plethora of technical apparatus with which to communicate, why is the human experience one of increasing isolation? Laura Hyde, Headmistress, will inquire into communication with a focus on young people today.

Thursday 1st September

GETTING OLD?

Richard Edmunds

Richard Edmunds, tutor in the School with special responsibility for elderly students, will discuss how the latter years of life can be happy and fulfilled in the meaningful practice and pursuit of wisdom.
